

HOUSING IN MONTRÉAL - ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW

What to know about renting an apartment in Montréal

Renting a room in a shared apartment is usually cheaper than renting an entire apartment for yourself.

The apartment starts at 3 1/2 and features distinct areas for the bedroom, living room, and kitchen. As the number of enclosed rooms increases, so does the overall size of the apartment.

3 1/2

1 closed bedroom, living room and kitchen

4 1/2

2 closed bedrooms, living room and kitchen

5 1/2

3 closed bedrooms, living room and kitchen

6 1/2

4 closed bedrooms, living room and kitchen

Checklist of things to consider when visiting apartments

What is the condition of the locks and the access door to the building?

Check if heating is included in the lease. If not, contact Hydro-Québec or Energir for a cost estimate before signing. Find information on the website using the address.

Check if appliances are included and in good working condition. Assess the furniture's condition if provided. Look for apartments with appliances to avoid having to buy them yourself.

Inquire about washing machine and tumble-dryer availability and associated fees. If there are none, locate the nearest laundry service.

In the bathroom, verify the water pressure of the shower, the cleanliness, the presence of humidity.

Are windows properly insulated? Try to avoid wooden frames.

How much storage space is available?

Due to the age of Montreal buildings, most apartments will not be soundproof. Find out about the profile of the people who will be your neighbors (family, students, etc.) in order to assess the potential noise levels.

Which shops and grocery stores are located nearby?

Is the apartment near bus stops or a metro station?

Sharing your apartment with roommates - Some advice

Split the group bills (e.g.: use the application SplitWise to share the expenses).

In general, electricity, internet, and insurance should also be shared between roommates. Those expenses are not always included in the lease. You need to pay attention!

Make a cleaning plan. Be aware that in Montreal, there are different collect days for compost, trash and recycling, depending on where you are living.

Communication is the key! Establish common rules, express your opinion, be yourself.

Don't forget to always act in respect of your roommates. Avoid conflicts.

Means of transportation in Montreal

Montreal's transport system includes the metro and buses.

Price: 56,50$/month and 3,50$ for one ticket.

BIXI offers bike rentals in the city. You can take out a subscription for the summer or pay for each use of a bike. There are several stations scattered throughout the city.

Price: 89$ for April - November or 20$ per month.

Uber is a useful app to have especially in case of emergency trips or when public transports are not available. It's a different rate depending on the trip and the price varies depending on the distance and time of day.

There are private taxi companies in Montréal you can call to order a ride. However, it is on the pricier side.

The most cost-effective way to get around is cycling. The city has several bike lanes, but be sure to have a lock to secure your bike and be watchful of traffic.
